INTRODUCTION

This report summarizes data submitted between September and December 2009 to the Office of the Secretary of the State under the provisions of Connecticut General Statutes (CGS) Section 4-9b, by 211 state boards, commissions, committees and councils.¹

Appointing Authorities for Reporting Boards and Commissions

In accordance with CGS Section 4-9b, the reporting boards and commissions listed in this report have at least one membership position appointed by the Governor or by a member of the General Assembly.²

In addition, many of the reporting bodies have members appointed by state agency heads or other non-legislative and non-gubernatorial appointing authorities

Major Requirements of Connecticut General Statutes Section 4-9b

CGS Section 4-9b requires appointing authorities for certain state boards, commissions, committees and councils to consider gender and race when making their appointments.

It also requires the chairpersons of those boards and commissions to biennially submit reports to the Secretary of the State documenting the gender and racial composition of their membership.

The Secretary of the State is required by CGS Section 4-9b to receive and maintain the reports as public records.

History of Diversity Data Reporting with the Secretary of the State

The first gender and racial composition reports filed with the Secretary of the State under the provisions of CGS Section 4-9b were received in the fall of 1993. This statistical summary report presents the data obtained during the 2009 biennial reporting period.

Functions of Reporting Appointive Bodies

The functions performed by the boards and commissions required to file gender and racial composition reports vary greatly. For example, some direct professional and occupational licensing programs, others have quasi-judicial responsibilities, some provide advisory assistance to state agencies, and others are created to study and report on public policy issues.

² While the leadership of the General Assembly makes most legislative appointments, legislative committee chairs also make some.

REPORTING REQUIREMENTS AND DATA COLLECTION

Statutory Reporting Requirements

Connecticut General Statutes (CGS) Section 4-9b requires appointing authorities to consider gender and race when making their appointments to certain state appointive bodies. Specifically, appointing authorities are to “make a good faith effort to ensure that, to the extent possible, the membership, except the ex-officio membership, of each state appointive board, commission, committee and council having members appointed by the Governor or appointed by members of the General Assembly is qualified and closely reflects the gender and racial diversity of the state.”³

The chairpersons of state boards and commissions affected by CGS Section 4-9b must biennially file a report with the Secretary of the State documenting the gender and racial composition of their appointive bodies.

By law, the Secretary of the State must receive and maintain the gender and racial composition biennial reports as public records. In order to facilitate public access to the data provided by the reporting boards and commissions, the Secretary voluntarily publishes a statistical summary of the data every two years.

Data Collection

In August 2009, in order to help boards and commissions comply with the reporting requirement of CGS 4-9b, the office of the Secretary of the State mailed report forms to 296 entities identified by the office as likely candidates for filing gender and racial composition reports.⁴ Reminder forms were mailed October 15, 2009, to entities that had not responded.

As of December 31, 2009, reports or responses were filed for 248 appointive bodies—a return rate of 84%.⁵ Thirty-six (36) of the responding bodies were reported as one of the following: (a) no longer in existence; (b) not required to file; (c) not yet organized; (d) operating status not known; (e) inactive and having vacancies in all appointed membership positions.⁶ One commission having members from multiple states appointed by authorities from their respective states provided incomplete gender and racial

⁵ Reports were received for six additional boards and commissions after the December 31, 2009 cutoff date, which raises the response rate to 86%.

⁶ See Appendix D for a list of the boards and commissions that were reported as no longer in existence (defunct), not yet organized, operating status unknown, and inactive with vacancies for all appointed membership positions.

composition data. Because no (or incomplete) data was available for these thirty-seven (37) entities, they are not included in the statistics presented below.

No response was received by December 31, 2009 from forty-eight (48) appointive bodies.⁷ It is likely that some of the forty-eight (48) are no longer in existence, even though they are still listed in the Connecticut General Statutes or in gubernatorial executive orders. Authorizing statutes and executive orders for boards and commissions that have ceased to actually function may be candidates for repeal by the General Assembly and the Governor.

Data Presentation

The statistics below present the data submitted by 211 state boards, commissions, committees and councils reported as being required to file and as either 1) active or 2) inactive but currently having at least one appointed member.⁸

Ninety-three (93) of the 211 reporting bodies reported having ex-officio members. Ex-officio members are excluded from the diversity requirements of CGS 4-9b and are, therefore, not included in the statistical information presented below.⁹

Excluding vacancies and alternates, the individual appointed membership size of the 211 appointive bodies ranged from one to thirty-eight (38). The aggregate appointed membership numbered 2,098. There were 270 vacancies reported on the 211 appointive bodies.

A table documenting the responses of the 211 appointive bodies is included with this report as Appendix B.

Data Limitations

It should be noted that the data presented in this statistical report provides a time-sensitive view of the gender and racial composition of the appointed membership for the ⁷ Included in the forty-eight (48) are six boards and commissions for which reports were received after the December 31, 2009 cutoff date; all are listed in Appendix E.

⁸ Two of the bodies reported as active—the Adoption Subsidy Review Board and the Connecticut Student Loan Foundation Board of Directors—indicated they had no current appointed members; in other words, all appointed membership positions on these two boards were vacant.

⁹ There were 429 ex-officio members (or their designees) serving on the reporting bodies. The term “ex-officio” means “by virtue of office.” Ex-officio members are not specifically appointed to a board or commission by the governor, legislature or some other appointing authority; they serve on the board or commission by virtue of some other office they hold (such as a state agency commissioner). Ex-officio members can be either voting or non-voting members of a board or commission. They are often able to designate a person to serve full or part-time in their place. For reporting purposes, designees of ex-officio members serving more than 50% of the time in place of the designating ex-officio member were reported as the ex-officio member. Because CGS Section 4-9b excludes ex-officio membership positions from its diversity provisions, those positions are not included in the statistics presented in this report. The statistics below present data only for the appointed membership of the reporting state boards and commissions.

reporting boards and commissions; a “snapshot” of their composition at the time their reports were filed. Resignations, new appointments, or the filling of vacancies may have since changed the appointed membership composition of some boards and commissions.

It should also be noted that while the governor and legislative leadership are appointing authorities for some of the positions on the boards and commissions listed in this report, many of the reporting bodies have members appointed by state agency commissioners or other non-legislative and non-gubernatorial appointing authorities.¹⁰ Therefore, it is not possible to definitively characterize the appointment practices of any particular appointing authority based upon the information collected by law and presented below.

Finally, it should be noted that CGS Section 4-9b does not require the appointed membership of state boards and commissions to exactly mirror Connecticut population statistics, and that Census reporting categories do not exactly correspond to Connecticut’s affirmative action reporting categories.¹¹ Nevertheless, comparing the reported data to U.S. Census Bureau data can provide useful information about diversity in the appointed membership of the reporting state boards and commissions.

Terminology

Race/Sex Categories

According to the provisions of CGS Section 4-9b, the figures, tables and narrative below use “race/sex” group terminology prescribed by the affirmative action regulations of the Connecticut Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities (CHRO).

The eight CHRO affirmative action race/sex group categories are: white male, white female, black male, black female, Hispanic male, Hispanic female, other male and other female.

Given that the term “Hispanic” does not refer to race but to ethnicity and is intended to refer to all persons of Hispanic/Latino origin regardless of race, the eight terms should be understood to mean the following: black male (not Hispanic), black female (not Hispanic), Hispanic male (of any race), Hispanic female (of any race), white male (not Hispanic), white female, (not Hispanic), other male (not Hispanic), and other female (not Hispanic).

U.S. Census Data Comparison

The tables and figures in this statistical report compare the data provided by state boards and commissions to population estimates for the nearest corresponding U.S. Census categories. Therefore, the CHRO reporting category “white (not Hispanic)” is compared to the U.S. Census category “White alone (Not of Hispanic or Latino Origin).” The reporting category “Black (not Hispanic)” is compared to the U.S. Census category “Black or African American alone (Not of Hispanic or Latino Origin).” The reporting category “Hispanic (of any race)” is compared to the U.S. Census category, “Total (Hispanic or Latino Origin).” And the reporting category “other (not Hispanic)” is compared to the aggregate of the following U.S. Census categories for persons not of Hispanic or Latino origin: “American Indian and Alaskan Native alone,” “Asian alone,” “Native Hawaiian and Other Pacific Islander alone,” and persons of two or more races.

¹¹ See “Terminology” below for more information on the subject of reporting categories.

BIENNIAL CHANGE IN AGGREGATE APPOINTED MEMBERSHIP

One way to assess diversity on the 211 state boards and commissions that reported in 2009 is to compare the composition of their aggregate appointed membership to state population statistics.¹²

The figures below compare the aggregate appointed membership data categorized by gender, race and race/sex group to data submitted for the prior biennial reporting period and to Connecticut population estimates.

Gender

Between 2007 and 2009, representation of women in the aggregate appointed membership of the reporting boards and commissions increased slightly from 37.0% to 38.5%. However, women continued to be underrepresented in the aggregate appointed membership of the reporting bodies in comparison to their estimated numbers in Connecticut's general population.

¹³ Population estimates for 2008 used throughout this report are taken from "Table 3: Annual Estimates of the Population by Sex, Race and Hispanic or Latino Origin for Connecticut: April 1, 2000 to July 1, 2008 (SC-EST2008-03-09)." Source: Population Division, U.S. Census Bureau. Release Date: May 14, 2009. While the Census Bureau released new population estimates for July 1, 2009 in December 2009, those estimates are for total population only. Population estimates for 2009 by sex, race and Hispanic ethnicity will not be available until May 2010.

Race/Ethnicity

Between 2007 and 2009, there was little change in percentage representation of minority racial/ethnic groups in the aggregate appointed membership of reporting boards and commissions.

In comparison to their estimated representation in Connecticut's general population, members of minority groups were underrepresented and whites were overrepresented in the aggregate appointed membership of the reporting appointive bodies in 2009, as they were in 2007.

Representation of African-Americans and Other (not Hispanic) individuals increased between 2007 and 2009.

Representation of both non-Hispanic whites and Hispanics/Latinos declined slightly in 2009.¹⁴

¹⁴ CGS Section 4-9b requires state boards and commissions to biennially report their gender and racial composition to the secretary of the state using “race/sex” group terminology as defined in the affirmative action regulations of Connecticut’s Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities (CHRO). The required CHRO reporting categories are: white male, white female, black male, black female, Hispanic male, Hispanic female, other male and other female. The term “Hispanic” refers to ethnicity and includes all persons of Hispanic/Latino origin regardless of race. The term “other” includes persons of Asian, Native American, Native Alaskan, Native Hawaiian and Other Pacific Islander origin, persons of more than one race, and all other individuals who do not self-identify as being white, black or of Hispanic origin.

Race/Ethnicity by Gender

In 2009, as in 2007, all race/sex groups, except non-Hispanic white males, were underrepresented in the aggregate appointed membership of the reporting state boards and commissions, in comparison to their estimated representation in Connecticut's general population.

While percentage representation of non-Hispanic white males declined again in 2009, non-Hispanic white men remained significantly overrepresented in the aggregate appointed membership of the reporting state boards and commissions.

Percentage representation of non-Hispanic black females increased the most in 2009 followed by non-Hispanic white females and non-Hispanic Other females.

Representation of Hispanic men and women, non-Hispanic black men, and non-Hispanic Other men remained essentially unchanged between 2007 and 2009.

BIENNIAL CHANGE IN APPOINTED MEMBERSHIP ON INDIVIDUAL REPORTING BODIES

Reviewing the composition of the aggregate appointed membership of the state boards and commissions that reported in 2009 provides one way to assess the diversity of appointees on those bodies. Reviewing the composition of the appointed membership on individual reporting boards and commissions, as will be discussed below, also provides information regarding diversity and change.

Gender Composition

According to U.S. Census estimates for 2008, Connecticut's population is approximately 48.8% male and 51.2% female.

In 2009, women comprised less than half of the appointed membership on most—70.3%—reporting boards and commissions. In 2007, women comprised less than half of the appointed membership on 67.5% of reporting bodies.

In 2009, women were not represented at all in the appointed membership of 15.3% of reporting boards and commissions; an increase from the 2007 figure of 13.5%.

In 2009, a smaller percentage of boards and commissions reported at least one female appointed member than in 2007 (84.7% versus 86.5%).

This data is summarized in Table 1 below.

¹⁵ Two of the 211 reporting bodies indicated they were active but had vacancies in their appointed membership positions. Therefore, those two are excluded from the reporting body count (N) in this and the tables below. Data for the 209 state boards and commissions that reported actual appointed members in 2009 is presented in these tables.

Racial and Ethnic Composition

Between 2007 and 2009, there was a small decrease in the percentage of reporting bodies having appointed members from a single race/ethnicity group. However, in 2009, more than half of the reporting state boards and commissions continued to have appointed members from a single race/ethnicity group (53.1% in 2009 versus 56.5% in 2007).

In 2009, 15.3% of the reporting boards and commissions had at least one appointed member from three or more race/ethnicity groups; a decrease from 16.4% in 2007.

4	3	1.4%	3	1.4%

In 2009, as in 2007, virtually all of the reporting boards and commissions (98%) reported having at least one non-Hispanic white appointee.

In 2009, 36% of the reporting boards and commissions reported at least one non-Hispanic black appointee, in comparison to 35% in 2007.

Fewer boards and commissions reported at least one Hispanic/Latino appointee in 2009 than in 2007 (19% versus 21%).

More boards and commissions in 2009 than in 2007 reported at least one non-Hispanic other appointee (10% versus 7%).

Race/Ethnicity/Gender Category Composition

In 2009, as in 2007, more than half of the reporting state boards and commissions had appointed members from two or fewer race/sex groups. The percentage decreased slightly from 59.4% in 2007 to 58.9% in 2009.

In 2009, there was little change in the distribution of appointed members from the eight race/sex categories on the reporting boards and commissions.

In 2009, non-Hispanic black females and non-Hispanic Other men and women served on a larger percentage of boards and commissions than in 2007.

In 2009, non-Hispanic white males and females, Hispanic males, and non-Hispanic black males served on a smaller percentage of boards and commissions than in 2007.

There was no change from 2007 in the percentage of boards and commissions having at least one Hispanic female appointee.

HISTORICAL CHANGE 1999-2009

Change in Aggregate Appointed Membership

It is possible to review the gender and racial composition of the aggregate appointed membership of reporting state boards and commissions from 1999 to 2009.¹⁶ This data is presented in tables 6, 7 and 8 below.¹⁷

One consistent trend since 1999 is the very slowly decreasing percentage of non-Hispanic white males in the aggregate appointed membership, and the similarly-paced increasing percentage of female appointees. (Tables 8 and 6)

In 2009, percentage representation of non-Hispanic black men and women in the aggregate appointed membership was higher than for any prior reporting period since 1999. (Tables 7 and 8)

Between 1999 and 2009, percentage representation of Hispanic men and women in the aggregate appointed membership remained essentially unchanged. (Tables 7 and 8)

Percentage representation of non-Hispanic white females increased slightly between 1999 and 2009. (Table 8)

2007	88.3%	7.4%	3.2%	1.1%
2009	87.5%	8.1%	2.8%	1.7%

¹⁶ Although gender and racial composition data for state boards and commissions has been filed with the Secretary of the State since 1993, report forms used prior to 1999 did not distinguish between appointed and ex-officio membership positions. Ex-officio membership positions are not included in the diversity provision of CGS Section 4-9b.

¹⁷ Statistics for 1999 through 2009 are taken from the gender and racial composition reports submitted to the Office of the Secretary of the State by state boards and commissions.

Between 1999 and 2009, there were changes in the extent to which men, women and members of specific race/ethnicity groups were over- or underrepresented in the appointed membership of reporting state boards and commissions relative to their estimated representation in Connecticut's general population.

Between 1999 and 2009, proportional underrepresentation of women and African American appointees on the reporting appointive bodies decreased. Women were underrepresented in the aggregate appointed membership by 33.4% in 1999 and by 24.8% in 2009. For African Americans, proportional underrepresentation decreased from 23.3% to 12.9% during the same time period.

Between 1999 and 2009, representation of persons of Hispanic origin and persons belonging to groups categorized as Other (not Hispanic) did not keep pace with their estimated general population growth.

Proportional underrepresentation of Hispanic/Latino appointees increased from 68.2% in 1999 to 76.7% in 2009.

Proportional underrepresentation increased the most for Other (not Hispanic) appointees: from 50% underrepresentation in 1999 to 64.6% in 2009.

Between 1999 and 2009, proportional overrepresentation of non-Hispanic whites increased from 11.5% to 18.6%.

Between 1999 and 2009, proportional overrepresentation of men decreased from 35.5% to 26.0%.

Change in Individual Appointed Memberships

Looking at the composition of the appointed membership on individual reporting state boards and commissions between 1999 and 2009 reveals additional information regarding diversity and change.

Representation of Women

Since 1999 there has been some increase in the representation of women on individual reporting bodies.

Between 1999 and 2009, there was a 2.5 point decrease in the percentage of reporting bodies having no female appointees and a corresponding 2.5 percentage point increase in reporting bodies having at least one female appointee.

Also between 1999 and 2009, there was a 12.9 point increase in the percentage of reporting bodies having at least equal representation of women and men in their appointed memberships.

Table 10 below summarizes this information.

Race/Ethnicity Group Diversity

In 2009, as in 1999, the appointed memberships of more than half of the reporting state boards and commissions were comprised entirely of non-Hispanic whites.

Between 1999 and 2009, there was a 4.9 percentage point decrease in reporting bodies having only non-Hispanic white appointees; 52.1% of reporting boards and commissions in 2009 versus 57.0% in 1999. There was an 8.1 percentage point decrease for the period from 2003 to 2009.

Representation of Non-Hispanic Whites in Appointed Membership on Individual Reporting Bodies 1999 - 2009
Year (N = Number of reporting bodies)	Reporting bodies having only non-Hispanic white appointed members	Percentage
1999 N=202	115	57.0%
2001 N=204	120	58.5%
2003 N=201	121	60.2%
2005 N=189	106	56.1%
2007 N=207	113	54.6%
2009 N=209	109	52.1%

There has been little change since 1999 in the distribution of appointed members from minority race/ethnicity groups on the reporting state boards and commissions, although Hispanic and Other (not Hispanic) appointees were serving on a larger percentage of boards and commission in 2009 than in 1999.

For each reporting period between 1999 and 2009 almost all boards and commissions indicated having at least one non-Hispanic white appointee.

During the same period, an average of one-third of reporting state boards and commissions indicated having at least one non-Hispanic black appointee.

The percentage of reporting bodies having at least one Hispanic/Latino appointee increased from 15% in 1999 to 19% in 2009. But the percentage was higher during the 2005 and 2007 reporting periods.¹⁹

From 1999 to 2009, the percentage of reporting boards and commissions having at least one Other (not Hispanic) appointee increased from 6% to 10%.

This information is summarized in Table 12 below.

¹⁹ This may seem to contradict the information presented earlier, which indicated the following: 1) little change in percentage representation of Hispanic/Latino appointees serving in the aggregate appointed membership of reporting state boards and commissions between 1999 and 2009; and 2) an increase in disparity between percentage representation of persons of Hispanic origin in the aggregate appointed membership and corresponding percentage representation in the state's general population. However, the statistic discussed here pertains to Hispanic/Latino representation on individual reporting bodies, and indicates Hispanic/Latino appointees were serving on a wider range of state boards and commissions in 2009 than in 1999. Put differently, Hispanic/Latino appointees were concentrated on a smaller number of boards and commissions in 1999.

2001 N=204	202 (99%)	70 (34%)	32 (16%)	15 (7%)
2003 N=201	199 (99%)	63 (31%)	33 (16%)	15 (7%)
2005 N=189	187 (99%)	64 (34%)	41 (22%)	16 (8%)
2007 N=207	203 (98%)	72 (35%)	44 (21%)	15 (7%)

APPENDIX A

From the Connecticut General Statutes, Revised to January 1, 2009

Sec. 4-9b. Membership of boards, commissions, committees and councils: Qualifications, gender and racial diversity required considerations. Report. Right of action. (a) Appointing authorities, in cooperation with one another, shall make a good faith effort to ensure that, to the extent possible, the membership, except the ex-officio membership, of each state appointive board, commission, committee and council having members appointed by the Governor or appointed by members of the General Assembly is qualified and closely reflects the gender and racial diversity of the state. If there are multiple appointing authorities for a board, commission, committee or council, the appointing authorities shall inform each other of their appointees or planned appointees in order to facilitate compliance with this section.

(b) The executive officer or chairperson of each state appointive board, commission, committee and council having members appointed by the Governor or appointed by members of the General Assembly, except committees whose membership consists solely of members of the General Assembly, shall report in writing to the Secretary of the State on or after September first, but not later than October 1, 1993, and biennially thereafter, (1) the number of members of such body and (2) the composition of the body according to the term "race/sex", as defined in the regulations of the Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities. Such report shall not include the names of the individual members of the board, commission, committee or council. The Secretary of the State shall receive and maintain the reports submitted pursuant to this subsection as public records.

(c) No provision of this section shall (1) prohibit an individual from completing a term as a member of a state appointive board, commission, committee or council being served on July 2, 1993, or (2) create a private right of action.

Enabling Authority Text

An “enabling authority” is a law or executive order that creates a board or commission. The text of the law or executive order will generally identify appointing authorities, specify the number of board or commission members, and list required qualifications for membership. The laws and executive orders creating most of the boards and commissions listed in this table can be found on the Internet at the links described below. The links were current as of February 25, 2010.

Text of the Connecticut General Statutes (CGS), the Connecticut Public Acts (PA) from 1988 to date, and the Connecticut Special Acts (SA) from 1988 to date are available on the web site of the Connecticut General Assembly at <http://www.cga.ct.gov/>

Executive Orders of Governor Rell are available on the Governor’s web site at <http://www.ct.gov/governorrell/>

Executive Orders of Governor Rowland are available on the Governor’s archived web site at <http://www.ct.gov/governorrowland/>

U.S. Congress House Resolutions (HR) are available through the Library of Congress web site at <http://thomas.loc.gov/>

The United States Code (USC) can be accessed through the U.S. Government Printing Office web site at <http://www.gpoaccess.gov/uscode/index.html>

The United States Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) is available through the U.S. Government Printing Office web site at <http://www.gpoaccess.gov/cfr/index.html>

* Abbreviations for “Enabling Authority” column are as follows: CFR = Code of Federal Regulations; CGS = Connecticut General Statutes; Exec. Enabling Authority Text

An “enabling authority” is a state or federal law that creates a board or commission. The text of the law will generally include information on the number of board or commission members, required qualifications, and appointing authorities. The laws creating most of the boards and commissions listed in this table can be found on the Internet, as described below. Links were current as of February 25, 2010.

Text of the Connecticut General Statutes (CGS), the Connecticut Public Acts (PA) from 1988 to date, and the Connecticut Special Acts (SA) from 1988 to date are available on the web site of the Connecticut General Assembly at www.cga.ct.gov

Executive Orders of Governor Rell are available on the Governor’s web site at <http://www.ct.gov/governorrell/>

Executive Orders of Governor Rowland are available on the Governor’s web site at <http://www.ct.gov/governorrowland/>

U.S. Congress House Resolutions (HR) are available through the Library of Congress web site at <http://thomas.loc.gov/>

The United States Code (USC) can be accessed through the U.S. Government Printing Office web site at <http://www.gpoaccess.gov/uscode/index.html>

The United States Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) is available through the U.S. Government Printing Office web site at <http://www.gpoaccess.gov/cfr/index.html>
